

LA MARIÉE aux PIEDS NUS

Thank you again for sharing the story of your relationship and wedding on the blog. Since 2009, on La mariée aux pieds nus, our purpose has been to help couples create their wedding day and make it truly about the two of them.

Below are the various elements we need to publish your feature, which should accompany your image gallery or any video link (vimeo link only) you may have.

How did you meet?

The Marriage Proposal:

Wedding Preparations:

The Wedding Day:

How did the wedding day unfold?

Any Special Memory. What particular memory(ies) will you cherish from this day?

What particular memory(ies) will you cherish from this day?

Do you have any advice to share with couples who will soon be saying "I do"?

Vendor Recommendations:

Since recommendations from real married couples are essential, please share with us the names and websites of the professionals who assisted you in your wedding. If you prefer not to mention one of your vendors on the blog, please let us know.

Note: Please present your list as follows:

Blog Credits:

Photographer: [Photographer's Name] [Photographer's Website] | Reception Venue: [Venue Name] [Venue Website] | Wedding Dress: [Designer's Name] [Designer's Website] | ...

Instagram Credits:

@[Photographer's Username] @[VenueUsername] @[Designer's Username] @[SuitDesigner's Username] ...

INFORMATIONS

The texts and information provided are used for the publication of your wedding feature.

Submitted texts are not altered except for the correction of any typos or phrasing to align with the blog's editorial line.

The images may then be used to illustrate other advice-type articles on the blog and will always be credited and linked back to the original article of your wedding.

In accordance with our terms of use and privacy policy, the email addresses of couples sharing their story are never disclosed to third parties.

If a reader wishes to have more information about your wedding, they will be asked to leave a comment under your publication, allowing you to respond directly if you wish.

La mariée aux pieds nus selects the images published on the blog from those provided by your photographer via a download link or an online gallery. If you do not want certain images to be used, please do not include them in the gallery you submit.

La mariée aux pieds nus is solely responsible for selecting and formatting, from your preselection, the images used in the article that will be published.

Generally, we aim to choose images that best capture the essence of your day and highlight you in the best way.

If, after the publication of an article, you wish it to be removed from the site, simply contact us by email at lamarieeauxpiedsnus@gmail.com, specifying the link to the article in question.

Regarding the right to image and image distribution. Sharing your testimony implies your agreement for its dissemination on La mariée aux pieds nus. We ensure not to publish photos of children on the blog, unless they are the couple's children and you have given your consent for them to appear on www.lamarieeauxpiedsnus.com.

If you have had a negative experience with any of the professionals who assisted you, please do not hesitate to tell us. This information will remain confidential, but it allows us to recommend or not recommend certain professionals to other loving couples.